Every American knows the name of the agency that delivers their mail--the U.S. Postal Service handles 668 million pieces of mail every day. The vast majority of it arrives intact, but thieves get to some of it before delivery.

Did you know that it's U.S. Postal Inspectors who investigate mail thefts? They get high ratings for their work, in the last year alone arresting over 6,000 theft suspects.

Despite their great report card, some parts of the country are dealing with "volume" mail thefts.

Thieves steal mail from postal trucks, collection boxes, apartment mailbox panels, co-op mailing racks, and neighborhood delivery and collection box units. They want your checks, your credit card applications, and or your bank account statements.

Thwart this new wave of theft by switching to E-Statements, the secure way to receive your statements.

Who's looking in your mailbox?
