

A2A Transfers

The ability to transfer money from your credit union to another financial institution.

A2A or Account to Account transfers makes it possible for you to initiate a transfer to and/or from your credit union account and an account you may have at another financial institution. This service uses the popular ACH(Automated Clearing House) process, so it is secure, and relatively fast. The transfer can happen as fast as the next business day.

Some of the reasons other members have used A2A are: I have my checking account at another bank, but the credit union has a lower interest rate for my next vehicle loan, so I transfer my payment from my other bank to my loan at Tahquamenon Area Credit Union. I spend a few months out of the year where it's warmer, and want the convenience of an account there, so I use A2A to easily get money there.

O&A

Q. Will I be able to schedule future transfers with A2A?

A. At this time, A2A transfers cannot be scheduled. You will need to initiate each transfer.

Q. Can I set up an A2A transfer to an account that I'm not the owner of?

A. The owner of the other account would need to sign the enrollment form with the understanding that they are providing permission for you to both deposit and withdraw from their account.

Q. Is there a limit on how much I can transfer?

A. Yes. The current daily limit is $3,000.00.

Q. If I want to delete an A2A relationship, how do I do that?

A. We need a written statement to discontinue this A2A relationship.

How secure is it?

Since it uses the same system that Direct Deposit uses, it is just as secure.
